

WISDOM SPEEKS is an entrepreneur, mentor, community activist, producer, and engineer with a broad-based experience in several areas of accounting, finance, contract administration, mass media, accounting, finance, contract administration, event coordination/planning, acquisitions, TV/Film Production, and public relation.

Being inspired to make a difference. WISDOM has established several programs that serve the community. The Audio Works for Life with the ONES Office is one where he mentors and provides a platform where at-risk youth can voice their thought and opinions in a creative environment. To also monetize their talents, identify and control their emotions and learn a skill and trade in the process.

Another is the Logistics Business Course at The DC Jail under a partnership with CSOSA. He instructs returning citizens and provides them the means to operate and succeed in commerce. Business ownership, financial literacy, resume writing, marketing, research principles, safety, and therapeutic processes. He has provided a positive outcome to give assets to the community.

He knew the importance of giving the participants the much-needed skills to succeed. WISDOM also established a transitional Housing program for multiple agencies, working partnerships with the community, employing returning and at-risk citizens, and liaising with various small businesses and large-cap businesses. He has bridged the gap to generate opportunities for those who otherwise would not have accessibility.

Among these ever-expanding community programs and accomplishments, he is also proud of the conceptualization and establishment of the 5-digit numbers game for the DC Lottery and Gaming Commission.

WISDOM has also written, produced, and engineered many musical projects. This includes a Grammy-nominated project by the late "Godfather of GoGo," Chuck Brown. Also, he has several television and
