Born in 1989 in New York, NY USA

Resides and works in Baltimore, Maryland United States

Josh Brooks is a Baltimore based artist known for his unique style of figure painting and portraiture involving a material driven technique that results in an interaction between the tangible representation of the human form and concepts of abstraction. The interplay between recognizable elements and loose dripping areas of bold mixing color are directly related to the artist's approach to limiting the control he has over his materials and ultimately create something imperfect and human as a reaction to a world that has become increasingly dominated algorithmic perfection.
