

ARTIST RESUME - PAT LANG

I am a native Marylander now living in Easton, MD. I grew up in Howard County and lived there many years as an adult. Primarily a self-taught artist, I began oil painting in my teens, learning through trial and error, and later visiting galleries to study famous works for techniques as well as reading art instruction publications.

As I experimented on techniques new to me, I used these experiences to master my own personal realistic style. I have exhibited in numerous art shows throughout Maryland over the past 50 years.

I enjoyed volunteering to teach seniors oil painting for several years through the Institute of Adult Learning program at Chesapeake College in Wye Mills, MD. Sharing my skills and techniques gave me a great deal of pleasure.

I have chaired and co-chaired as well as volunteer for art shows of the Working Artists Forum, and participate in a number of their sponsored shows each year, including Easton's Waterfowl Festival.

I continue to enjoy participating in other art shows throughout Maryland as well, including at the Art League of Ocean City and the Howard County Arts Council. My work can be seen at <https://patlangartist.weebly.com>.
